

Master degree programme

Website

Agronomy

The study programme aims at fostering highly qualified master students in Agronomy able to summarize and creatively apply the latest research-based knowledge in agrobiological, agro-innovation, information technology when dealing with agricultural scientific and industrial issues, introducing innovations, ensuring agricultural production and environmental sustainability, and working in agricultural research, management, consultancy as well as seeking self-improvement. Graduates have career opportunities as senior managers, researchers, senior consultants in agricultural education and government institutions that modelling strategy of agricultural and food economy development in training and management institutions, consulting services, horticultural and floricultural farms and enterprises. The programme offers graduates opportunity to further third cycle studies (PhD) in the area of agricultural sciences.

Faculty of Agronomy

Group of Fields of Study Agricultural Sciences

Length of Programme 2 years

ECTS credits 120

Name of Qualification Master of Agricultural Sciences

Tuition fee (per year) 4787 Eur

Contacts

VMU Agriculture Academy International Coordinator dr. Ekaterina Makrickiene ekaterina.makrickiene@vdu.lt

Address

Studentų str. 11, Akademija LT-53361 Kaunas district, Lithuania

